La Leche League International Presents:

Breastfeeding:
Best Practice for Today’s World

Purpose
To provide a postgraduate course for lactation specialists on current breastfeeding information, skills, and tools needed to assist breastfeeding mothers in pre- and postnatal situations.

Objectives
- Describe the significance of mother-infant interactive partnership and the developing mother-child relationship.
- Explain the factors influencing the breastfeeding partnership.
- Identify parameters for assessing the breastfeeding partnership.
- Describe mother and infant behavior patterns that enhance early initiation of human milk and breastfeeding.
- Describe the dimensions of mother-infant interactive patterns during breastfeeding.
- Differentiate between patterns when infants breastfeed well and patterns when infants are perceived as difficult breastfeeders.
- Identify interventions that promote positive mother-infant interactions when breastfeeding difficulties are apparent.
- Identify issues that affect infant feeding during a natural or man-made disaster.
- Outline how infant feeding practices affect health.
- Discuss humanitarian aid policies and practices that impact on infant feeding.
- Discuss reasons for relactation and induced lactation.
- Outline the practical steps to establishing lactation without an immediately preceding pregnancy.
- Identify specialized resources for this target group.

La Leche League International Presents:

Breastfeeding: Best Practice for Today’s World

Faculty

- Roberta Hewat, RN, MSN, PhD, IBCLC

Breastfeeding has been the focus of Roberta Hewat’s clinical practice, teaching, and research in a career of working with childbearing families in both hospitals and community health. As a faculty member for the School of Nursing at the University of British Columbia since 1980, she has conducted numerous breastfeeding studies: her doctoral dissertation combined breastfeeding and mother-infant interaction. A founding member of two breastfeeding clinics, she continues to practice and supervise students in this specialty. She served as chair of the Research Committee of the International Lactation Consultants Association from its inception in 1994 to 2000 and co-chaired the Breastfeeding Committee for Canada for three years. Currently the treasurer of the National Authority for the Baby-Friendly Initiative in Canada, she is the principal investigator of a Health Canada grant to Implement and Evaluate the Baby-Friendly Initiative in Canada.
